Beef Ambassadors host clinic, 40 attend

Tehama County Beef Ambassadors Danielle Mueller, Emyli Palmer and Kayla McGiffin organized a Beef Fitting Clinic for more than 40 members of 4-H and FFA with beef projects on August 22 at the Tehama District Fairground. B. J. MacFarlane, farm manager at Shasta College and Cory Reid of Reid Cattle were instructors at the multi-stage clinic. They instructed the youth on proper bathing of a beef animal, using a blower, clipping and fitting for showing at the fair.

Thanks to the many sponsors, a hamburger and all beef hotdog lunch was served to the attendees. Tehama County Cattleman member Monte Shults was at the grill assisted by cattlemen and parents of the Beef Ambassadors. Sponsors included Tehama Co. CattleWomen and Cattlemen, Red Bluff Bull & Gelding Sale Committee, Wheeler Logging, Dave & Kathy Lester, Bert & Anne Owens, Mike & Teri Collins, Ron & Jennifer Anderson, Golden State Farm Credit, Tehama Co. Farm Bureau, One Hundred Eleven Ranch, Scott Valley Angus, Crain Walnuts, Reads Century Bar KD Ranches, Shasta Farm & Equipment, Reynolds Ranch & Farm Supply, Hawes Ranch & Farm Supply, Turri Family Farms, I-5 Tire, and Bimbo Bakeries.

TC Beef Ambassador advisor Kelly Mouton announced they planned to have a fall beef clinic focusing on beef nutrition, health and prospect selection for 4-H and FFA members.
